MARKED FOR DEATH BY MAFIA, HE SAYS truly terrible appearance. "I am as good as dead now," he declared to Judge Higgins. "Why, I am alive is strange. Every morning when I start for market I feel that by night masses will be saying for my soul. Then I wake up in a hospital and think I am dead."

'Mafia" plots to Judge Higgins in the First Criminal Court of Jersey City to-day that made his own hair stand

The Italian has often appeared in court as complainant, now and then arriving on a stretcher and always by Angelo Democa. Demaco charged that Dominico, who lives at No. 95 Morris street, Jersey City, has been constantly threatening him with a stilletta two feet long. Democa lives No. 58 Morris street, a place which police raided as a "Brack Hand" den five months ago on evidence fur ished by Mussellino. Mussellino had brought about their arrest, believing that the men had been signing his name to "Black Hand" notes relying on the fearful effect the name of Mussellino inspires in Italy. Since the day of the raid, he declared court to-day, nine attempts have made to murder him. He has
